Instructions related to Danadim® Progress

On 11 November 2025 the Australian Pesticides and Veterinary Medicines Authority (APVMA) took regulatory action to change the withholding periods that apply to certain uses of Danadim® Progress.

Danadim® Progress may continue to be used according to the instructions on the product label except where the label provides harvest withholding periods related to the instructions for use on blueberries, or blackberries and raspberries. The harvest withholding period must be replaced with the following instruction:

Blackberries, blueberries (and other vaccinium berries including bilberries), raspberries: DO NOT harvest for 14 days after application.

All instructions referring to harvest withholding periods on the existing label relating to blueberries, blackberries and raspberries are considered void from 11 November 2025 and are replaced by the above.

Stock of Danadim® Progress that does not have the updated withholding period stated on the label, may continue to be supplied until 11 November 2026, however a hard copy of these instructions must be provided when supplying the product.

For further information or assistance, please contact your FMC representative.

Thank you for your attention to this important update.
